Where Do Your Dollars Go?

The Zachary Foundation has contributed in excess of $200,000 to Mitochondrial Disease Research. The Zachary Foundation will continue to donate to physicians and organizations that are engaged in research for Mitochondrial Disease and in particular Pyruvate Dehydrogenase Deficiency.

What is Mitochondrial Disease?

The mitochondria are the power plants in every cell, in every person's body. In people with mitochondrial disease, the mitochondria do not turn food into the much needed energy to fuel the organs or muscles in the body. The end result can often mean a severe failure of major organs, muscle groups and whole body systems. Life is compromised, altered or even ended. There is no proven treatment. There is no cure.

Pyruvate Dehydrogenase Deficiency is a rare form of mitochondrial disease whereby the body cannot convert sugar into energy. Imagine your child's birthday party without birthday cake or goody bags. Imagine taking your child out on Halloween and collecting candy, and then afterwards having to discard the candy because to him/her it would be like eating poison. There are no known cases of this disease where the affected person has lived past 20. Help us give Zachary a chance to beat that mark.
